

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for start delay warning in a liquefied petroleum gas injection engine is disclosed. During a period required for forming a sufficient fuel pressure in a fuel supply line, a warning signal is generated such that a driver is directed 5 to maintain an ignition switch at its second (simply IG on) stage.